use countif one of the statistical functions to count the number of cells that meet a criterion for example to count the number of times a particular city appears in a customer list in its simplest form countif says countif where do you want to look what do you want to look for for example countif a2 a5 london countif a2 a5 a4 the first result is if your comparison is true the second if your comparison is false if statements are incredibly robust and form the basis of many spreadsheet models but they are also the root cause of many spreadsheet issues ideally an if statement should apply to minimal conditions such as male female yes no maybe to name a few but sometimes you might need to you use the sumif function to sum the values in a range that meet criteria that you specify for example suppose that in a column that contains numbers you want to sum only the values that are larger than 5 you can use the following formula sumif b2 b25 5 this video is part of a training course called add numbers in excel tips following are examples of some common nested if and if or and if not statements the and and or functions can support up to 255 individual conditions but it s not good practice to use more than a few because complex nested formulas can get very difficult to build test and maintain the not function only takes one condition if and b14 b 7 c14 b 5 b14 b 8 0 if total sales are greater than or equal to the sales goal and accounts are greater than or equal to the account goal then multiply total sales by the bonus otherwise return 0 need more help you can always ask an expert in the excel tech community or get support in the answers community here s a formula you can use to accomplish this sumifs d2 d11 a2 a11 south c2 c11 meat the result is the value 14 719 let s look more closely at each part of the formula sumifs is an arithmetic formula it calculates numbers which in this case are in column d the first step is to specify the location of the numbers sumifs d2 d11 averageif range criteria average range the averageif function syntax has the following arguments range required one or more cells to average including numbers or names arrays or references that contain numbers criteria required the criteria in the form of a number expression cell reference or text that defines which cells are examples copy the example data in the following table and paste it in cell a1 of a new excel worksheet for formulas to show results select them press f2 and then press enter the ifs function checks whether one or more conditions are met and returns a value that corresponds to the first true condition ifs can take the place of multiple nested if statements and is much easier to read with multiple conditions the if function is one of the most popular functions in excel and it allows you to make logical comparisons between a value and what you expect so an if statement can have two results the first result is if your comparison is true the second if your comparison is false the or function returns true if any of its arguments evaluate to true and returns false if all of its arguments evaluate to false one common use for the or function is to expand the usefulness of other functions that perform logical tests for example the if function performs a logical test and then returns one value if the test evaluates to true and another value if the
